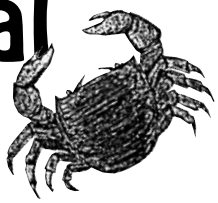
Sanctuary Habitat:
The Rocky Intertidal



The National Marine Sanctuaries west of the Golden Gate harbor a fascinating array of plant and animal life in a variety of habitats. Protected by the federal government for the benefit of current and future generations, the Sanctuaries serve as the ideal focal point for marine education in the San Francisco Bay Area. Foster in your students a stewardship ethic towards their own backyard—incorporate marine education and field trips into your curriculum. To help make this easier, we're developing a series of Sanctuary packets for use in any educational setting. The first of these is now available. The Rocky Intertidal Teacher's Packet includes:

- a full slide show with corresponding script
- easy to photocopy fact sheet ideal for reinforcing important concepts
- glossary of scientific terms
- list of recommended additional subject reading
- field trip ideas, guidelines, and tips on preparation
- classroom activities on the rocky intertidal
- fact sheets on the Gulf of the Farallones
- full color map brochure to hang in your classroom
- discussion list of "Things to do to Save the Ocean"
- ordering information on additional marine education merchandise
- how to become a member of FMSA and access the teacher resource library

Please fill out, enclose with payment, and mail to: FMSA - Education, The Presidio, P.O. Box 29386, San Francisco, CA 94129.
